Dear Dustin,

You've probably heard a lot of technology buzzwords lately, like A.I., machine learning, and the cloud. But what do these words actually mean for law enforcement officials like you?

We turned to law enforcement professionals and technology experts to find out, and compiled their thoughts to make our 2017 Trends Report. It looks at where technology is today and helps shed light on where policing may be headed, as agencies become more efficient than ever before.

Dear David,

Earlier today, I made a few big announcements. If you weren't online to watch the livestream, you can still get caught up on the news.

The first is that we are changing our corporate name from TASER International to Axon. We're very grateful to the men and women of law enforcement who have helped us become the company we are today, and we're now much more than TASER weapons. Of course, TASER will continue to be the name of our CEW products, but will be a focused product brand, rather than a company name. We've grown into an entire network of devices, apps and people that is revolutionizing public safety around the world. In fact, we have a new video that shows how, which I encourage you to check out.

Our future starts now, with the second announcement I made: To help agencies get the technology they need, we're offering agencies nationwide a free one-year trial* of our cameras, software and training. Agencies across the country are seeing huge impacts when they give officers the equipment they need to keep themselves and their communities safer. And they're seeing time and cost savings that make the value of this technology obvious. We want other departments to realize these same benefits, starting with rigorous field testing that will help them make an informed decision.

We encourage all providers of body cameras to make similar offers to allow agencies to trial these new technologies and make informed decisions based on experience rather than paperwork and PowerPoints. The details of this promotion are available at www.axon.com/offer. Please reach out if you have any questions.

Thank you for the work you do every day. Our mission to protect life is more focused than ever, and we ask for your support as we move forward under the new Axon corporate name.

Stay safe,

Rick Smith

Subject: FW: Request for Additional Feedback - SP-98-PD-17

Ms. Neziol,

Per your request a brief summary of our phone conversation:

I explained that our RFP left everything very open-ended so vendors could indicate their solution to our Body Worn Camera program. We did not list specific requirements as it would possibly limit us to a product that may not have the most current features/options available due to today's rapidly changing technology. Although we did have Taser as a BWC vendor for our trial period as well as other companies to varying degrees we did not select your product because it does not have some of the capabilities that our selected vendor has. A few of those items are: no audio only recording, no gps, no individual still photos (only from videos), needs a separate device to view in field, etc.

We were very transparent with Ben throughout the RFP process as we were with other vendors. We have purchased smart devices to move forward with our chosen vendor. Should our needs change or our current vendor does not meet our expectations we may revisit the process in the future.

Thank you for your inquiry.

Subject: Request for Additional Feedback - SP-98-PD-17

Good afternoon Sid,

Thank you for the opportunity to bid on The City of Fontana RFP for Body Worn Cameras (SP-98-PD-17). Body worn technology represents a fundamental shift in the way police departments, cities, and communities administer and improve law enforcement. We're excited that Fontana is taking this step and look forward to hearing about the positive impacts this new technology has on The City.

While we respect and appreciate The City's intent to move forward with another provider, we were disappointed and surprised to see two vendors receive higher RFP scores than Axon. Based on the criteria listed in the RFP (experience, responsiveness, system, project plan, and cost) we would greatly appreciate your guidance into where Axon scored lower and ultimately lost the bid. With stronger experience, financials, hardware / software development, and project planning resources than any other vendor in the space (notably the top-two scoring vendors) we hope you can provide additional insight into your selection process and criteria.

Further, if the vendor you have selected does not fulfill your needs for an exceptional solution, we welcome the opportunity to discuss the issues as well as potential remedies. Our agencies have told us that a rigorous side-by-side field trial is key to the evaluation process. Therefore, we continue to offer a year-long national field trial at no cost if you're considering further evaluation of the top-three scoring vendors.

Axon's mission is to Protect Life and Protect Truth. As a long-time partner to law enforcement, we also welcome candid feedback to improve our solutions to serve you better.

Thank you so much,

Hi Ben,

DARN IT..Got your call last week and got sidetracked. I was trying to figure out what we are doing exactly before I called you back. My apologies. I have gradually been somewhat stepping away from the program to let our new Admin. Lt. Jim Burton take my place.

Ron did call me and tell me their great news. We are still going ahead with our RFP. We had to wait on SBPD to submit the MOU to DOJ. We hope to have the RFP in by April 1st at the latest.

We have always been honest with each other, as I have every vendor. We are currently testing a smart device based BWC along with Taser. We already finished with Watch Guard and Wolf Comm. No idea how that will turn out with officer feedback on the smart device.

I am back in state on March 1. We can talk then if you are available or I can have Jim call you. We are insanely busy in Admin. with all our personnel changes and major projects. Thank you for continuing to look out for us. Again, my apologies for the delay. I am on vacation but wanted to answer your email before flight door shuts.

Have a great day!

The Year Accelerate Got Epic

Whoah boy. If you weren't one of the 1500+ attendees of the Accelerate conference this year, you missed out. KEYNOTE HIGHLIGHTS

There was no mistaking we were in for a great few days when Axon CEO Rick Smith bounded onto the stage for the opening keynote. Catch a few highlights here, as Rick announces Axon's latest products and explores important trends he sees in the tech industry (and how they might impact public safety in the future).

NEW PODCAST EPISODE: CHICAGO PD'S BODY CAM POLICY

Many agencies wrestle with how much body camera footage to release to the public—and how and when to do it. Chicago PD has an intimate understanding of both positions, having gone from an incredibly restrictive policy to full transparency. Hear Chief Communications Officer Anthony Guglielmi discuss the process that brought them to that position, and how they handle the footage today.

FLEET 2: IN-CAR GETS UN-CARRED

One of the big announcements at this year's Accelerate was the debut of Axon's latest Fleet system: Fleet 2. Fully integrated into the Axon network, this new system is much more than an in-car camera. It's the un-car camera. Fleet 2 has a completely updated form factor and is packed with new features. One thing that hasn't changed: easy installation.

#TruePolicing: A social media experiment

In our recent efforts to help agencies boost recruiting, we've heard over and over that one of the biggest challenges is perception: Potential recruits have a skewed view of what policing is really like from the movies and media. To help tell a more honest story of what day-to-day police work is really like, we've launched a Facebook page to showcase body camera footage: the good, the bad, the ugly...even the funny.

To accompany that footage, we've invited experts in policing and beyond to give commentary so the public has context into what they're seeing. We hope you'll join the conversation. And if you have footage you'd like to submit, please email it to press@axon.com.

What agencies need from a future-proofed RMS

By Sayce Falk, VP of Software Product Management

Police agencies today face a challenging dilemma — the variety and depth of the problems that they are presented with in modern society continue to increase even as their technology tools seem to fall farther and farther behind.

Those challenges tend to differ across the country — in some regions, officers become drug addiction counselors; in others, they are challenged by chronic homelessness; and in others, gang—related violent crime has been spiking...

VIDEOS REQUEST

Greetings TASER Instructors,

I wanted to take a few minutes to send out a request for CEW deployment videos which may be useful within future TASER training versions.

Specifically, if your agency has a video which you feel may be beneficial in regard to CEW training objectives, please feel free to submit it to us for consideration.

We're especially interested in videos which depict any of the following:

- Compliance achieved merely by arcing or displaying a CEW
- Compliance achieved via good verbalization/de-escalation skills
- Effective deployment utilizing two-shot capabilities of the X2 CEW (e.g. First shot missed or suffered clothing disconnect, 2nd shot achieved desired outcome)

- Any other videos which depict typical learning objectives (e.g. shot placement, cuffing under power, etc).

Any agency who submits a video which is selected for use in Version 21 will be awarded a free X26P or X2 CEW; along with a holster and power source.

Submission guidelines:

1. All video submissions must be sent electronically to TASER Training Staff Instructor Ed Cangiano
2. All video submissions must be accompanied by the Video Release Agreement. This means that your agency must have full ownership of the video; as well as authority to release it to TASER Training (Axon).
3. Please include the following information, at a minimum:
 - Your full name, agency, mailing address and email contact
 - Type of video hardware which recorded the incident (e.g. Axon Flex, in-car video, etc.)
 - Brief narrative, including type of call-for-service; as well as lessons-learned, final outcome, etc.

Agencies who have videos which are selected for use will be notified via email.

Please direct video submission questions directly to Staff Instructor Ed Cangiano.

On an unrelated note, please remember that all TASER Instructors are expected to check our Training Resource page at least 72 hours prior to delivering any TASER training.

Unfortunately, we continue to suffer from instructors who aren't using the most current forms and documents; or not complying with Training Bulletins as they apply to use and submission of the exposure release forms, etc.

Thank you,

Michael Dzezinski

Head of Global CEW Training

This issue of the Axon Journal features articles by some of our most exciting Accelerate 2019 speakers. Over the coming months we'll be sharing more content from our speakers – giving you a little taste of the information and thought leadership that will be in abundance at the conference.

THREE MAJOR IMPACTS OF 5G ON IN-CAR VIDEO

Right now, 5G technology is dominating the conversation in the communications industry with claims of “wire-like” speeds and experience. This means incredibly fast upload and download speeds with incredibly low latency – which will be fantastic for consumers who want faster accessibility to high quality pictures, videos, games, etc. But what does this mean for law enforcement? How will 5G impact your day-to-day operations? When thinking about in-car video systems, there will be no less than three areas of significant impact.

OFFICER SUICIDE - UNITING A HOUSE DIVIDED

Every single police officer has different life experiences, different coping skills, different biological make-ups. They'll also have completely different experiences on the job. So, they're all going to react differently. Some will be fine and might get through it no problem, no questions asked. Others are going to need help. They'll need an external factor to help get through it. When it comes to officer suicide, here's what we need to do.

13 FOCUS AREAS FOR MILLENNIAL POLICE RECRUITING

It's no secret that recruiting and retaining millennial aged police officers has become something of a monumental task for departments. There are a lot of different forces at work contributing to this problem – some more obvious than others. In this post, Dr. Jim DeLung covers his research-backed 13 key focus areas.

AI, FACIAL RECOGNITION, AND AXON.

Here we try to shed light on another dimension of the face recognition discussion that often gets overlooked. Face recognition is a broad term that lumps together a collection of technologies. This generalization can make conversations around the subject confusing. Below is an attempt to break down the components under the hood of what is referred to as facial/face recognition.

Background: One of the features built into the TASER 7 Conducted Energy Weapon (CEW) is the ability to upload new operating firmware as firmware upgrades are developed. Promptly installing firmware updates is critical for helping to ensure the health and serviceability of your agency's CEWs. These releases address anything from simple bugs, to enhancements that result in a more reliable weapon, to brand-new features that make your CEWs perform better in the field.

On February 13, 2019, Axon released a firmware update for the TASER 7 only. Version FW 1.3.8 key updates include the following:

- Repaired health reporting on Axon Evidence (Evidence.com) to fix errant "Major HVM Error" that was displayed for handles. Please Note: any handles previously reporting a Major High Voltage Module Error should be updated to 1.3.8 to confirm the error has cleared. If the error does not clear, please submit the device for repair.
- All LASERs are now enabled to remain ON during Cross-Connect and Arc functions.
- Various bug fixes and improvements

Update firmware by loading the battery pack to TASER 7 docking station. After the LED next to the battery pack turns solid green, insert the battery pack into the TASER 7 CEW to complete the update.

In your position, I know you get invited to events constantly (as do I), and there's not enough time in the year to go to half of them. But I want to personally invite you to an event that will—without a doubt—be worth your time.

I'm proud to say that, in just three years, Accelerate has grown to become the largest tech conference for public safety in the world. It's been successful for a simple reason – because people get a lot from it. We did a survey, and 97% of attendees say they'd return.

Accelerate is part thought-leadership, part hands-on learning, part networking—and hopefully part fun, too. After all, we all learn better when we're engaged. We're bringing in experts from all over the globe to tackle the biggest, most challenging problems law enforcement faces. We'll be showcasing not only new technologies from Axon and 30 other companies, but inviting you to have a voice in how we create the technologies we're working on now.

I hope you'll join me in Phoenix from April 29 - May 1. And, if you go and don't think it was an excellent use of your time, send me an email, and we'll reimburse your ticket.

You can register here. See you in April!

Sincerely,

Rick Smith, Axon CEO

P.S. This year at Accelerate, you'll have the chance to take Axon Records for a test-drive. We think this RMS is going to be a game changer, and to make procurement easier, we've made it a part of our Officer Safety Plan package.

Hello,

I'd like to ask for your help. This year, there is a book being published called "The Thin Blue Lie: The Failure of High Tech Policing." It's written by Matt Stroud, a person who, shall we say, holds police (and Axon) in very low regard.

I am also writing a book, called "The End of Killing" – which is a counterpoint, setting forth a strategy for how the continued evolution of less-lethal capabilities will save ever more lives... culminating when we reach the performance of something like the Star Trek Phaser.

Critics like Mr. Stroud rely upon telling the stories of where lives are lost. We need to balance his negative narrative by telling the stories of the lives you all have saved, and the risks you undertake to do so.

If you have a story about how you or someone else from your agency used some of our technology to save a life, or to better protect the public, would you mind sharing it with me? We can't just respond with statistics, we need the human stories of the amazing and heroic work you do.

If you respond and share a story, I will take your email as permission to retell your story. Write it exactly as you would want it told (redacting personal identifying information as appropriate). Feel free to identify your agency, your officers, or not. I will assume what you send is ready for sharing.

Also, please send me your address, so we might send you back a little gift as a thank you for helping us tell the story of the good work we do together.

Let me conclude by thanking you for doing an often thankless job. I am sorry for people who feel they need to smear you, and I am committed to pushing back against them.

I am thankful to be a part of your community, and a part of your team. I can't wait to read more of your stories, and I will share them widely with the rest of the team here at Axon. It frequently puts a lump in our throat to learn of how you put the heroics together with our technology to do amazing things.

For those of you who didn't see it, here's a link to the tribute we put together with OneRepublic to celebrate and thank the men and women in

Dear Axon Customer,

Two weeks ago I sent an email asking for your help in setting priorities for the new year. The response was fantastic. I'm grateful for the kind words I received back and the thoughtful requests and ideas for a stronger partnership.

There are a few trends we noticed in responses and we're thinking carefully about them in our planning sessions. But I want you to know, this isn't just a listening exercise. I'd like to take quick action when I hear an idea that could benefit you.

For example, several of you asked about training. You wanted access to certification training without having to travel as far to keep costs down and limit time away from the agency. Here are a few things we're doing to address this:

- NEARBY TRAINING: We're doing an experiment - taking Axon certification on the road in the fourth quarter of 2018. We'll start with several U.S. cities and expand from there based on customer interest. So far, Axon Body camera certification has only happened in Scottsdale and it always fills up quickly. We'll try this experiment and see if it gives the customers who want it more access to it.
- MORE AFFORDABLE TRAINING: This week, I've asked our training team to cut the price of this Body camera certification from $600 to $400 through the end of 2018. We have to ship equipment, rent facilities and send subject matter experts to each location, but this should allow us to cover a good portion of those costs and give more of those who want this certification the opportunity to participate.
- MORE TIME HANDS ON: We're working on improving our training for Body cameras and TASER weapons with a new team who specializes in modern learning technologies. You should begin to notice a shift from full-day PowerPoint time in a classroom to higher quality, interactive training online and more hands-on time with the equipment during training sessions.

Stay tuned for specifics on these training updates in the next 3-4 weeks.

Anyway, that only addresses a handful of the comments I received, but I want you to know this was a very helpful exercise for me. I'm grateful for your thoughtful feedback and will periodically send updates as we make more decisions based on your input.

Warm Regards,

Luke Larson

Dear Axon Customer,

I've spent a lot of time thinking about our customers lately. This is a big year for us - our 25th - and it's only because of you. I want to thank you for the part you've played in supporting Axon for 25 years. And more importantly, thank you for keeping us all safe and our society secure. We'll be celebrating our anniversary at IACP and hope to see you there.

We're about to begin planning for 2019 with a leadership offsite in two weeks. This is a chance for us to review the upcoming needs of our customers and plan our product priorities for 2018 - with an eye towards the impact technology will have on public safety over the next 25 years.

I have one question for you to help me prepare for this offsite: How can we serve you better in 2019?

If you have anything you'd like to share, please simply reply to this email. We'll carefully read and consider each response and share them with the leaders of Axon. We have so many things we'd like to do, but need to focus on a few priorities that will matter most to our customers in our partnership to protect life.

Whether you respond or not, I'm grateful for you and the brave and selfless work you do for our communities.

Warm Regards,

Good Morning,

We are preparing checks to pay for our employees training, but we require a W-9 from your company to process. Would you be able to email me a copy so we may complete the check process?

Thank you,

Under penalties of perjury, I certify that:

1. The number shown on this form is my correct TIN (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me).
2. I am not subject to backup withholding because I am exempt from backup withholding, I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding.
3. I am a U.S. citizen or other U.S. person (defined below).
4. The FATCA codes entered on this form, if any, indicating that I am exempt from FATCA reporting are correct.

Certification instructions. You must cross out item 2 if you have been notified by the IRS that you are currently subject to backup withholding because you failed to report all interest and dividends on your tax return. For real estate transactions, item 2 does not apply. For mortgage interest paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, contributions to an individual retirement arrangement and, generally, payments other than interest and dividends, you are not required to sign the certification, but you must provide your correct TIN.
